

A black and white photograph of Thomas Edison in his workshop. He is an older man with white hair, wearing a dark suit and a bow tie. He is holding a light bulb in his right hand, which is resting on a wooden workbench. On the workbench, there is a small, glowing light bulb with a visible filament. The background shows shelves with various items and a hanging light bulb.

Edison nach dem
x-ten Fehlversuch:
„Wir sind nicht
gescheitert. Wir kennen nun 1000
Wege, wie man
eine Glühbirne nicht
entwickeln kann.“

Der Wandel ist die neue Normalität

Gastbeitrag

••• Von Michael Schwartz